Kioa Island students are excited about the solar system they will get in Feb.

See page 3 for info about Kioa and Navatu schools that are soon to benefit.

Check out page 2 to see how to get involved.

Hawker Primary's Green Day -- 'tree hugging'

Claremont's musical helping the kids in Kioa and reducing carbon emissions.

Loreto SA had a jungle day and dressed up as their favourite animals.

Some 'old kids' raced up this.

TIGS Wollongong had a sports-a-thon to help kids

Tumut Rugby Juniors sold their jerseys

"As a former principal I can only imagine the joy felt by teachers in low income schools when their resources budget increases by 20% plus for the next 20 years. That's what these projects can do. It's also a growth opportunity for our kids."

SEAN GORDON, Life Member of Aust. Primary Principals' Assoc.

Education vs fuel

Diesel generators not only pump out carbon dioxide they steal education from students in low income schools. Replacing diesel power with solar in remote Pacific island schools creates new education opportunities because the money saved on fuel is spent on education.

For example, Rabi Island School is saving over $7000 per year that is now spent on books, software and other education resources. That's a big deal considering the average family income is less than $100 per month. That solar system will also save over 150 tonnes of carbon dioxide.

Have a Green Day at your school

A mufti day wearing something green or wear a green ribbon.

Green represents the environment and the fresh new education opportunities our students create. The gold coin gift will keep enhancing other student's lives for a generation.

Creating education opportunities for other kids -- what a great way for our students to take a stand against climate change.

Our students connected and learning

When the school system is installed your school receives details of the culture, geography, agriculture, history, system specifications, pictures and a certificate of appreciation (email).

The Pacific schools are assisted to link with schools that helped them. They can communicate about their location, lifestyle, food, weather, outputs from the solar system, fuel saved etc.

Our kids are tomorrow's teachers, politicians, scientists and parents with the world's future in their hands. If these experiences help them learn a little extra, care more and be better environmental stewards that can only be a good thing.

"With the money saved on fuel we will buy more text books. Now, for language studies, we share 10 books between 35 students."

ASHMIR RAM Teacher
Navatu School, Vanu Levu

"We can not express how thankful we are for your kind donation of a solar system. The students teachers and myself have anticipated this for a long time."

ALLAN HEDSTROM
Principal, Rabi Island School

The 104 students and 5 teachers at Kioa Island Primary school are eagerly awaiting the 12 panel solar system that will be installed in Feb. 2011

Thanks for making a difference

Navatu Junior Secondary school has 201 students and 16 teachers. We hope to install a 12 panel system here in Feb. (fingers crossed) or later 2011

It's unreliable and burns heaps of fuel

Teachers in the library

Navatu's generator is noisy and expensive
