

A young corn plant with several green leaves is growing out of a patch of severely cracked and dry earth. The cracks in the soil are deep and irregular, forming a mosaic of small, dark brown polygons. The plant is the central focus, standing upright against the desolate background.

Breaking new ground:
Risk financing for slow onset events

David Simmons
Managing Director: Capital Science and Policy Practice

09 November 2017