

Mr. Gerard Alleng

Climate Change Senior Specialist, Inter-American Development Bank (IDB)

Gerard Alleng is a climate change senior specialist with Climate Change and Sustainability (CCS) Division of the Inter-American Development Bank (IDB), Washington DC, USA. Gerard joined the IDB in 2008 as a clean energy and climate change specialist and is currently coordinating the CCS Division's adaptation and mitigation activities on climate change in the Caribbean.

Prior to joining the IDB, he was a Policy Fellow with the Center for Energy and Environmental Policy at the University of Delaware, where he managed projects that focused on renewable energy policy and climate change issues. He has also worked as a wetlands ecologist for the research institutions in Trinidad and Tobago and in Jamaica. In addition, he has worked as an independent energy policy consultant in the Caribbean region.

Gerard holds a Master's degree in Energy and Environmental Policy from the University of Delaware and a Master's degree in Wetlands Ecology from the University of the West Indies, Jamaica.

Gerard is a Caribbean Fulbright scholar.

Gerard is married and lives with his wife in Maryland, USA.
