

Global Alliance
for Buildings and Construction

Secretariat

For the first time, the building sector's critical role in the fight against climate change was recognized with a Buildings Day, held at COP 21 in Paris on 3 December 2015. Part of the Lima-Paris Action Agenda

Buildings are part of the 'Action Agenda (COP21 and COP22) and will also be highlighted by Global Alliance at COP23 in Bonn, November 2017

Global Alliance
for Buildings and Construction

Secretariat

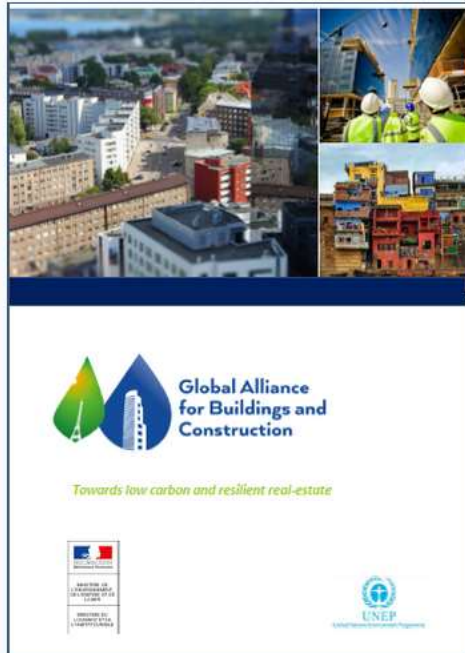

Creating the transformation needed to address the challenges in the building sector requires investing approximately an additional $220 billion US by 2020. But returns on this investment could be as high as 124% if investments in ambitious policy and technology actions are made now.

Tracking NDCs and country progress on buildings-related actions are key objectives of the GABC

Global Alliance Objectives

- Communication: Raising awareness & make visible the magnitude of the opportunities and impacts in the buildings sector, define sectoral goals and promote transparency and information exchange.
- Collaboration: Enable public policies and market transformations, foster partnerships, sharing technology and know-how and improving access to efficient financing and funding.
- Facilitate Implementation: Offering programs and solutions that put the building sector on a below 2°C path
