

SUBMISSION BY LEBANON ON THE REVIEW

On the scope of the review:

- Lebanon is of the view that the review should assess the adequacy of the long-term global goal referred to in paragraph 4 of 1/CP.16, and an agreed probability for achieving it.
- The review should also assess overall progress by Parties to achieve the long-term goal. This should include mitigation actions by all Parties as well as the provision of support for mitigation by developed countries to developing countries according to article 4.3 of the convention. The review would include an assessment of the gap between pledged and committed mitigation on one side, and emissions levels consistent with a pathway that allows a high probability for staying well below 2°C on the other.

On the timing of the review:

- The review of the long-term goal should be concluded in 2015, and should be based on most recent peer-reviewed science, especially the finding of the IPCC's Fifth Assessment Report, due in 2014.
