Bloggers Area: Introduced at COP 16/CMP 6 in Cancun, the Bloggers Area is a work area for bloggers and online communicators from the observer community. It is located at The National Stadium (Level -1 Sector C). There are around 50 work spaces, each equipped with table, chair, electrical power connection and a hard-wired Internet connection. In addition, an open wireless network is available.

Use of the Bloggers Area is prioritized for designated online communications professionals such as bloggers from approved observer organizations. Other computer centres in the conference venue are available for other participants (see the "Information for Participants" brochure). Bloggers wanting to use the Bloggers Area are requested to contact the Side Events and Exhibits Office at The National Stadium, and will be issued with badges accordingly.

Climate Change Studio: In order to channel the dynamic and engaging views and ideas of participants the secretariat continues to organize the "Climate Change Studio" - a platform that provides an opportunity for participants to be interviewed briefly by a professional journalist on actions, solutions, observations and issues that impact on climate change. All interviews are filmed, edited and made available on the UNFCCC website as well as on Climate Change TV, the world's first internet broadcaster dedicated entirely to climate change issues. Interviews will be catalogued in a fully searchable database alongside other interviews with world leaders, expert observers, decision makers and activists in the international climate change debate.

All interviews are announced on the UNFCCC website and CCTV monitors throughout the conference venue. For further information on the Climate Change Studio and the booking of interview slots, please contact the secretariat:
