

Energy conservation and energy efficiency improvement in China

Mr. Yang Hongwei, Energy Research Institute, National Development and Reform Commission, P. R. China

This presentation will briefly introduce China's recent progress in energy conservation and energy efficiency improvement and its relevant effects on GHG mitigation. Major contents of this presentation include: features of China's energy production and consumption; China's achievements in energy conservation and energy efficiency improvement; energy efficiency policies and measures that are being implemented or planned to be implemented in China and their expected effects on GHG mitigation; and supporting measures and technology needs to realize China's ambitious energy efficiency target.