

Special Event by The Climate Reality Project

Wednesday, 10 December 2014, 1.15 p.m.

Room Cusco

In the struggle to solve the climate crisis, a powerful, yet largely unnoticed shift is taking place.

Former U.S. Vice President Al Gore, chairman of The Climate Reality Project, will deliver a presentation on the impacts of the climate crisis with a focus on the path to a sustainable world. From the rapid decrease in the price of renewables, to growing momentum from businesses and governments to reduce their emissions, the way forward for humanity has never been clearer. All around the world, the tide is shifting and momentum for action to solve the climate crisis is rapidly growing.
