DESCRIPTION

The goal of the study is to find out what conditions are needed, what the best ways to implement adaptation are, and what problems need to be solved.

Its main goal is to raise awareness in countries and the adaptation community.

Just as important, it tries to find out about the incentives and benefits of expanding successful small pilot projects that were funded for by one fund and used funds obtained from various sources.

The study also gives suggestions for how the Adaptation Fund and its partners can keep stepping up adaptation efforts.
