

How intergovernmental representatives may attend sessions

Only admitted intergovernmental organizations may be represented at sessions of the Convention bodies. Admitted intergovernmental organizations are notified of the date and venue of sessions by the secretariat. Following the procedures outlined in this notification, the head of the organization should communicate the names of the representatives to the secretariat. Upon registration at the sessions, these representatives will be issued with a badge allowing access to the conference facilities.