Not Done Yet

The climate negotiations are all but over and we do not have the fair, ambitious and legally binding treaty that millions of people worldwide have demanded. But it is impossible to be without hope as our movement has come so far in this short space of time. World leaders still have a chance to get this right, but time is ticking.

They are not done yet, and neither are we.

World leaders have failed us. They have walked away from the global summit in Copenhagen without a treaty to save the climate. They still have a chance to get it right and we will not let them fail. The future of 6.5 billion people is at stake... You are one of them.

They are not done yet, and neither are we.

ACT NOW - CHANGE THE FUTURE

They didn't get it done.

Impunity and injustice are legacy of deadly July riots in Mongolia

The Government of Mongolia has failed to effectively respond to human rights abuses that took place during the July 2008 riots in Ulaanbaatar and elsewhere. Since the violence, hundreds of people have been detained, charged and convicted...
