"The Earth will be what men and women want it to be"

Joaquín Costanzo

IPS - Latam Development Director Montevideo - March, 2005 TIERRAMÉRICA

MAIN OBJECTIVES

- A major communication platform on environment and sustainable development in Latin America and the Caribbean.
- Multimedia product targeted at public and private decision-makers and civil society in general, to influence on national policies and raise awareness.

CHARACTERISTICS

- Cooperation program between UNEP and UNDP.
- Execution agency: Inter Press Service (IPS)
- Associated in 2002 to the Comisión Centroamericana de Ambiente y Desarrollo (CCAD) and the World Bank for Central America.
 - Associated in 2003 with Corporación Andina de Fomento (CAF) for Andean countries' related issues.
- Alliance with media and civil society protagonists.
- Supported by international and regional institutions and private sponsors.

STRATEGIC GOALS

- weekly page in major Latin American newspapers (El Universal, México; La Hora, Ecuador; La República, Uruguay; Diario de Hoy, El Salvador; Tiempo, Honduras; La Prensa, Panama; Diario de los Andes y Sol de Margarita, Venezuela; Jornal do Brasil, Caderno Ecologico; Las Américas Herald, Tampa, Orlando, USA, Tiempo Caribe, Colombia, etc).
- transmission of weekly programs by Latin
 American radio stations

STRATEGIC GOALS

- interactive Internet site with qualified information, chats, training courses
- educational sector: special plans for the usage of Tierramérica in class
 - other products, such as TV, CDs and books.

THE TIERRAMÉRICA PAGE

SEASONS PLUMAS

El Dia Después de Trinidad

Tierramérica is produced in four formats: weekly (complete or abridged), monthly and twice monthly.

Combined circulation of more than one million copies.

Estimated number of readers: 4,000,000.

DIFFERENT GRAPHIC VERSIONS OF THE PAGE

NEWSLETTER

- Weekly e-mail newsletter with an abridged version of the page.
- Reaches 4,000 decision-makers in the region.
 - Portuguese version reaches 5,000 journalists and decision-makers in Brazil

Tierramérica on the Radio

Weekly program transmitted by more than 1000 cultural, community and commercial radio stations in the region.

Estimated potential audience: 5,000,000 a 15,000,000 listeners

Promotional newsletter sent to 1,500 radio stations in the region.

- More than 450,000 page views per month
- Information available in Spanish, English and Portuguese.

Acentos

Por Diego Cevallos

Águila arpia quiere retomar vuelo

Panamá es pionero en el rescate de esta imponente ave: más de 30 pichones han nacido en cautiverio desde 2001.

Uno de los ejemplares rescatados por la Fundación Fondo Peregrino.

Un huevecillo de la Harpia harpyja. Crédito: Mauricio Ramos

PORTUGUÉS

ENGLISH

EDITORIAL COUNCIL

The Editorial Council of Tierramérica is composed of former Presidents, Nobel Prize winners, outstanding writers, scientists, communicators, singers, indigenous leaders and other international personalities.

CONTRIBUTORS

Herman Daly

Al Gore

(Academician, School of Public Affairs, University of Maryland)

(Former US Vice-president)

Rigoberta Menchu

Enrique Iglesias

(1992 Nobel Peace Prize)

(President, IDB)

Jose Maria Figueres

Vandana Shiva

(Managing Director of the World Economic Forum. President of Costa Rica from 1994-1998)

(Author and international campaigner for women and the environment. Right Livelihood Award 1993)

Rene Castro

Eduardo Galeano

(Former Minister of Environment, Costa Rica)

(Uruguayan writer and novelist)

Mario Molina

Supachai Panitchpakdi

(Chemistry Nobel Prize)

(Director-General of the World Trade Organisation)

James D. Wolfensohn

Gro Harlem Brundtland

(President of the World Bank)

(Director-general of the World Health Organisation (WHO) and former prime minister of Norway)

Joao Pedro Stedile

Marcos Terena

(leader of the Movement of the Landless (MST) and Via Campesina-Brazil, member of the organising committee of the World Social Forum)

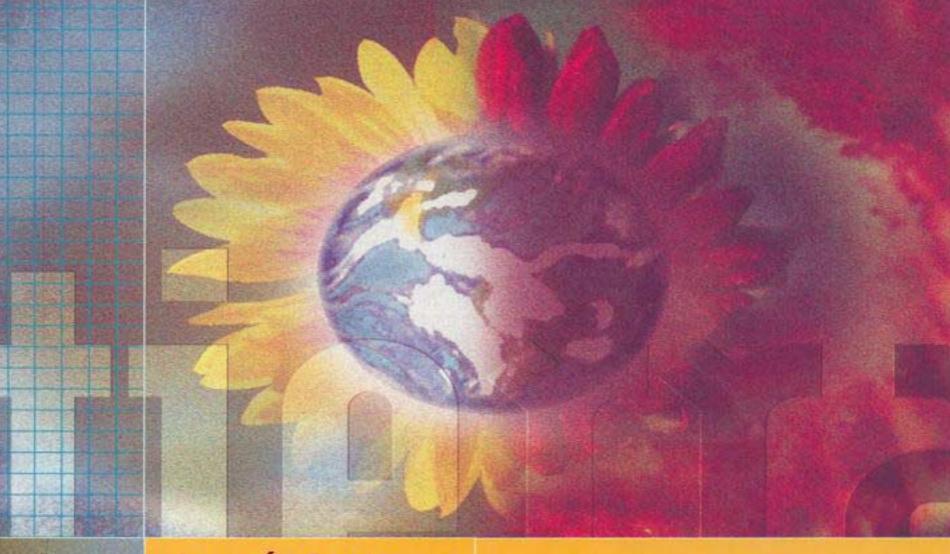

(Indigenous ethnic Terena, member of the Intertribal Committee and advisor to the Indigenous Commission on Intellectual Property (CIPI) of Brazil)

Virtual Regional Structure

"The Earth will be what men and women want it to be"

Joaquín Costanzo

IPS - Latam Development Director Montevideo - March, 2005 TIERRAMÉRICA