What is this exercise for?

This exercise is designed to help participants to familiarize with the current status of their countries' reporting and reporting requirements of the enhanced transparency framework (ETF); take a rapid assessment of how their current reporting compares with the reporting provisions of the ETF;

Consultative Group of Experts

ascertain what it needs to put in place in order to transition to the ETF; and identify action items and support needs to plan for and start preparing for the implementation of the ETF.

What is the focus of the exercise?

"This exercise includes 3 worksheets and consists of two parts:

1) Self-assessment tool, contained in first 2 worksheets, focusing on the following components:

- Rapid assessment of how current reporting compares with the relevant reporting provisions contained in the MPGs for the ETF;
- Identification of key areas of enhancement to the current institutional and technical capacity necessary to support the implementation of the ETF;
- Formulation of solutions (actions) to address the identified key areas of enhancement;
- Support needs to address the action items identified as above.

2) Action planning tool contained in last (3rd) worksheet: Based on the self-assessment, participants will develop an action plan focusing on 1-2 priorities. Examples are provided the worksheet (in grey font)."

How to conduct the exercise

Self-assessment tool - Reporting information on climate change impacts and adaptation – guide and reference information

- Based on your work experience and/or Choose the latest NC, adaptation communication or national adaptation plan from your country and look at the scope of information reported therein.
- Column A of the self-assessment tool table, key elements of reporting requirements: They are identified with a view to facilitating the assessment in a focused way.
- Column B of the self-assessment tool table: Make an assessment of to what extent the information reported in the latest NC aligns with the reporting provisions contained in Chapter IV of MPGs for the ETF.
- Column C of the self-assessment tool table: Identify key areas of enhancement to the current institutional and technical capacity necessary to support the preparation and reporting of information on climate change impacts and adaptation in line with the MPGs for the. Some guiding questions, as below, can facilitate this step of exercise.
- Columns B - E the self-assessment tool table: Describe details in a way that reflect the national circumstances. The assessment information will serve as a good basis to engage in the break-out group exercise.

Guiding questions

1-1. Does a National Adaptation Plan (NAP) process exist?

If so, how could it be enhanced to meet the reporting requirements in the ETF MPGs with respect to adaptation strategies, policies, plans, goals and actions.

Consultative Group of Experts

If not, how is adaptation mainstreamed into national policies and strategies?

1-2. Do legal frameworks for supporting the implementation of a national adaptation plan exist?

1-3. Does an institutional framework and governance to facilitate decision-making, planning, coordination, monitoring and evaluation of adaptation actions exist?

2. Do you have adequate data, tools (including models) and procedures for vulnerability assessment in different sectors? Which sector is advanced / less advanced in terms of data and methodologies/tools?

3-1. Do you have sufficient technical know-how on planning and implementation of adaptation actions?

3-2. Has a database of projects that implement adaptation actions been set up?

4-1. Do you have sufficient technical capacity to collect and manage data relevant for the monitoring of adaptation actions?

4-2. Have the indicators for collecting data to monitor adaptation actions been established?
