Laura Sabogal Reyes
Head, Climate and Development Finance
Finance in Commons (FiCS) and International Development Finance Club (IDFC)

Laura Sabogal Reyes is Head of Climate and Development Finance at Finance in Common (FiCS) and the International Development Finance Club (IDFC), seconded from E3G. She leads work on climate and development finance across the FiCS and IDFC networks, with a particular focus on the role of Public Development Banks in supporting country-led investment pathways and mobilising public and private capital for sustainable development and climate action.

Her work focuses on strengthening the financial and institutional frameworks needed to translate national climate and development priorities into investable programmes and projects. This includes supporting country platforms and investment coordination mechanisms, advancing financial solutions to scale climate investment, and strengthening collaboration between governments, development banks and private investors across emerging and developing economies.
