

UNFCCC GRB Workshop Breakout Group - French

Facilitated by Sophie Robidoux, NGCCFP Canada and Jean Marc Racine, SAEDI Consulting

Which are the main actors/stakeholders you may need to work with to make GRCB a reality?

The identification of main actors and/or partners to be targeted in order to make the GRCB a reality – meaning providing answers to the “WHO” question of the working Group – was articulated around 2 main administrative frameworks and 2 main associated cross-cutting considerations:

1. A sectoral framework: where the main sectors of interest were identified: Public sector (Government ministries, commissions, secretariats, Parliament/ House & Senate including the associated thematic commissions, mayors/ municipalities and territorial assemblies, public research institutes, universities, etc.) – Private

2. A public administration /hierarchical framework: where the effective inner working relationships amongst the different public actors identified are presented so to know which one(s) or set of actors (successive and simultaneously) to target in priority in order to get the issues on the national budgeting agenda. Is it the Ministry of Planning?

Finances and Economy? The procedures on how to go on in actually getting the attention of the main-actor-decision makers in order to make the GRCB a reality was debated and tackled in details by the participants.

Cross-cutting considerations pertaining to the 2 framework above mentioned were then pointed out:

1. The FY budgeting cycle meaning one needs to know the FY budgeting cycle process of the country and of the main actors of interest so to ensure not to miss the planning window to integrated the issues into the agenda and then subsequently integrated into specific budget lines to be approved by Government and / or parliament.
2. The Need for designing clearly articulated Performance indicators
