

GEF GST TD1.3 statement

"The GST is a very important step for assessing the progress towards the implantation of Paris Agreement. The GST should identify the Gaps, the lesson learned the future action to fill the gaps taking into consideration the commitments of developed countries and the priorities and needs of developing countries. additionally, the GST should highlight the need of means of implementations to help developing countries to combat climate change for both adaptation and mitigation. Means of implementation include the availability of financial resources that can be accessible with simplified procedures- Leaving No One Behind, Technology transfer without negative social and environmental impacts, and capacity building."
