

Group passing modality

Group passing modality gives each group member an opportunity of writing down their best idea anonymously. All participants then take turns in reviewing and building upon each of the ideas. By the time all participants are done the group will have extensively elaborated on all ideas.

This is followed by a read-out and discussion of all contributions.

This exercise is very fast paced and we need to stick to time for us to be able to work on all three cross-cutting areas and include everyone.

We will indicate the timing of each step and we will be strict on time.