

Georgia submits the following textual proposals for the draft decision on the annual technical report of the PCCB:

- Notes that capacity gaps and needs still exist in developing countries of every region pertaining to the implementation of the Convention, and that reliance on Regional Climate Weeks cannot address such gaps and needs for developing countries in regions where Regional Climate Weeks are not currently held;
- Notes with concern that the target for 2024 indicates that the PCCB's target for 2024 to aim for "[a]t least 50 percent representation from Africa, Asia, and the Pacific and Latin America and the Caribbean" has no source in the work of the UNFCCC or in international law;
- Decides that the target referred to in para. [x] above be clarified to aim for at least 50 percent representation from developing countries, regardless of region;
