“Sharm el Sheikh Adaptation Agenda: The Opportunity to Accelerate System Transformation for Resilience”

Description	COP27 will be an opportunity to catapult an agenda of action that accelerates adaptation implementation and helps materialise the momentum renewed at COP26 to increase finance flows for adaptation and to align more finance with efforts to reach the local level. Shifts in narrative must now be backed up with material change. In this event, we will connect the dots across the many actors and sectors in the space of adaptation and resilience and showcase the impact such combined action across and within sectors can achieve. While no single ‘silver bullet’ exists around one type of action, meaningful actions on adaptation and resilience as a suite of climate risk and impact management actions can in fact deliver the system transformation needed to accelerate adaptation towards a resilient planet. This arsenal of actions can enable us to stop playing catch-up to the impacts of climate change and to ensure we can drive toward the ambition of making 4 billion people resilient to climate shocks and stresses by 2030. Those who are most affected by climate change today—women, girls, indigenous people, frontline, vulnerable and marginalised communities—must be involved in the design and implementation of climate response actions to ensure the equal sharing of benefits. Join us in this event to explore together what such adaptation action opportunity can mean for your work or sector, in alignment with the goals of the Race to Resilience and the Paris Agreement.
Objectives	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>● Launch and set the scene for 2030 Adaptation Outcome Targets</li> <li>● Sistil ‘the noise’ into actionable suite of common resilience interventions across and within sectors - and how the Adaptation Outcome Targets feed into;</li> <li>● Showcase concrete examples of adaptation implementation on the ground from R2R partners and MP stakeholders, with focus on local inclusion, climate justice and equity;</li> <li>● Raise ambition on the quality and direction of financial flows, as one of the key bottlenecks to implementation (using the previous day’s Finance MP event as spring off board); and</li> <li>● Give voice to regional and local lived experience via Regional Resilience Hubs-R2R-MP connection and make reference to MPGCA priority themes;</li> </ul>
Key messages	<ol style="list-style-type: none"> <li>1. Adapting to our rapidly changing climate requires a new level of ambition to anticipate the growing impacts of the climate crisis. The world is facing an unprecedented humanitarian crisis, triggered by the climate crisis and other compounding risks. Actions DO exist on the ground and we must drive financial flows to the last mile to ensure those actions are sustained, just and can be appropriately scaled up or scaled out.</li> <li>2. We need to plug the climate finance gap for those on the frontline of climate change. While there is increasing recognition of the importance of enabling financing to reach the most vulnerable countries and communities - the principles of Locally Led Adaptation launched in early 2021 now have over 80 organisations and countries endorsing them and more than $1.5 bn has been pledged to institutions which support them - challenges remain and the urgency of the task at hand requires continued and ramped up action to enable finance to flow to those who need it the most.</li> <li>3. Investment into adaptation and resilience is not just an initial ‘cost’, it is also an opportunity to drive forward risk and gender-sensitive and climate-justice focused investment funds and to fuel regenerative economies that benefit all</li> </ol>
