

Analyzing the use of standardized approaches to solving food security deficiencies at rural schools as a way of stimulating entrepreneurship, skill development, decent work and quality jobs for underrepresented youth.

1. Submitting organization:

KINDERENERGY

2. Short description of the study:

What came first, the chick or the job? Kinderenergy has been trying to tackle food security issues at rural schools in Tanzania and Uganda. In an effort to highlight education as a development multiplier and with an eye on teaching self reliance, we have seen how through the simple purchase of baby chicks to produce eggs at schools and the teaching of maintaining and caring for the chicks, has not only achieved the intended consequence of improving food security and improved diet, it has also led to increased skill development, job creation and entrepreneurship.

3. Geographical Region:

Tanzania & Uganda

4. Area of climate policy:

Food security & skill development at rural schools in Africa;

5. Short description of the policy(ies):

We are not prepared to answer this yet.

6. Work programme Area to be covered by the Study:

Economic diversification and transformation; Just transition of the workforce and creation of decent work and quality jobs ;

7. If the case study will cover assessment and analysis of the impacts of the implementation of response measures, the impacts to be studied:

Social; Economic; Environmental;

8. If the case study will cover assessment and analysis of the impacts of the implementation of response measures, the type of assessment (Qualitative/Quantitative/Both):

Both

9. If the case study will cover assessment and analysis of the impacts of the implementation of response measures, the methodology or tool used for impact assessment:

We are not prepared to answer this yet.

10. Status of proposed case study:

Case study is in progress or partially completed and will be continued in collaboration with the KCI

11. If the case study is completed and published, link to the case study:

(blank)

12. Elaboration on how the submitter would contribute to the development of the case study:

Kinderenergy is connecting WASH + food security + entrepreneurial skill development at schools as a way to move out of poverty.