Rawlestone Moore

Rawlestone Moore
Senior Climate Change Specialist
Global Environment Facility (GEF)

Mr. Rawlestone Moore is a Senior Climate Change Specialist in the Global Environment Facility (GEF) and an internationally recognized expert in climate change, environmental finance, and sustainable development with more than 25 years of experience supporting governments, multilateral institutions, and international organizations in advancing global climate action.

A former climate change negotiator, Mr. Moore has participated in the UNFCCC process for more than two decades, providing technical and strategic advice to governments and international institutions on climate policy, adaptation, climate finance, and the implementation of the Paris Agreement. Throughout his career, he has provided strategic leadership in the design and implementation of climate change adaptation and mitigation initiatives and has served as a trusted advisor on international environmental negotiations.

Mr. Moore has extensive experience working with developing countries—particularly Small Island Developing States (SIDS) and Least Developed Countries (LDCs)—to develop innovative climate finance solutions and strengthen resilience to climate change. He has collaborated extensively with the World Bank, UNDP, UNEP, FAO, multilateral development banks, and other international partners to mobilize climate finance, strengthen institutional capacity, and support countries in achieving sustainable, climate-resilient development.
