

Sara González

Sara González holds a law degree with a specialization in climate policy and has worked on climate-related issues since 2012. She has served as an official Party delegate to the UNFCCC and is a member of the UNFCCC Roster of Experts since 2013.

She has held several leadership roles in the international climate arena, including Action for Climate Empowerment (ACE) Coordinator for the G77 + China, Co-Chair of the Global Climate Action Programme of the Climate Investment Funds (CIF), Deputy Head of Delegation for COPs, and Head of Delegation for SB sessions.

Her areas of expertise include climate education, youth engagement, climate transparency, public policy design, and climate finance mechanisms. She currently serves as the Technical Director of the National Council for Climate Change of the Dominican Republic, where she also acts as the National Focal Point for ACE, Custodian of the UNFCCC Roster of Experts, and Designated National Authority (DNA) for Article 6.4 of the Paris Agreement.

At the national level, she has contributed to key processes such as the implementation of the Dominican Republic's Nationally Determined Contribution (NDC), the promotion of carbon markets, the elaboration the climate law, and the integration of climate education into national policy.