Samson Mbewe is an Economist and Technical Programme Manager at SouthSouthNorth (SSN), a South African-based organisation dedicated to supporting national and regional-level responses to climate change and sustainable development. Currently, he leads research efforts in a programme focused on exploring operational pathways for Article 2, paragraph 1(c) of the Paris Agreement in Africa.

With over ten years of experience, he has a proven track record of implementing regional and country-level programmes to support decision-makers and key stakeholders in advancing climate action in Africa. His expertise lies in climate finance, energy transitions, ESG investing, mobilising investments for NDC implementation and sustainable development. Previously, he served as a Teaching Assistant and Researcher at the University of Cape Town (UCT), focusing on addressing the challenges of African economic development. He holds two Master's Degrees in Applied Economics and Energy Development Studies from UCT.
