ADVISORY NOTE TO ALL UN VISITORS AND CONFERENCE/MEETING PARTICIPANTS EBOLA VIRUS DISEASE PROTOCOL

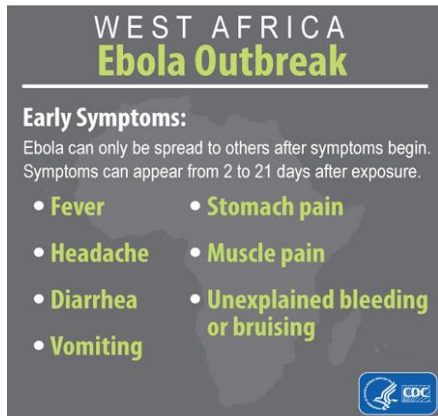

Ebola virus disease (EVD) is a rare and severe viral disease. The virus can infect both humans and non-human primates (monkeys, gorillas, etc.). When infected, people can get very sick and experience fever, intense weakness, headache, sore throat and pains, and may bleed from different parts of the body (i.e., hemorrhage). There is currently no licensed vaccine or specific treatment for EVD.

The majority of cases in humans have occurred as a result of human-to-human transmission. Infection occurs by direct contact (through broken skin or mucous membranes) with the blood, secretions, organs or other body fluids of infected people, and with surfaces and materials (e.g. bedding, clothing) contaminated with these fluids. People become contagious only after they start to show symptoms.

While EVD has a high mortality rate and there is no preventive medication or specific cure available, visitors/participants should be aware that according to the World Health Organization, the risk of introducing EVD to and transmitting it at an international meeting is generally very low. There is no evidence of airborne transmission of EVD.

The purpose of this note is to provide the following essential information so that you are aware of the symptoms of EVD and know what to do in case you get sick during your visit or meeting, so that you may protect your own health and safety and that of other visitors/participants and of UN staff.

Know the symptoms of EVD and see a health care provider immediately if you have any symptoms of the disease.

The symptoms of EVD include:

Sudden onset of fever	Intense weakness
Muscle pain	Headache
Sore throat

This is followed by:

Vomiting	Diarrhea
Rash	Impaired kidney and liver function
In some cases, both internal and external bleeding

If you are experiencing any of the above symptoms, please be sure to follow the steps below:

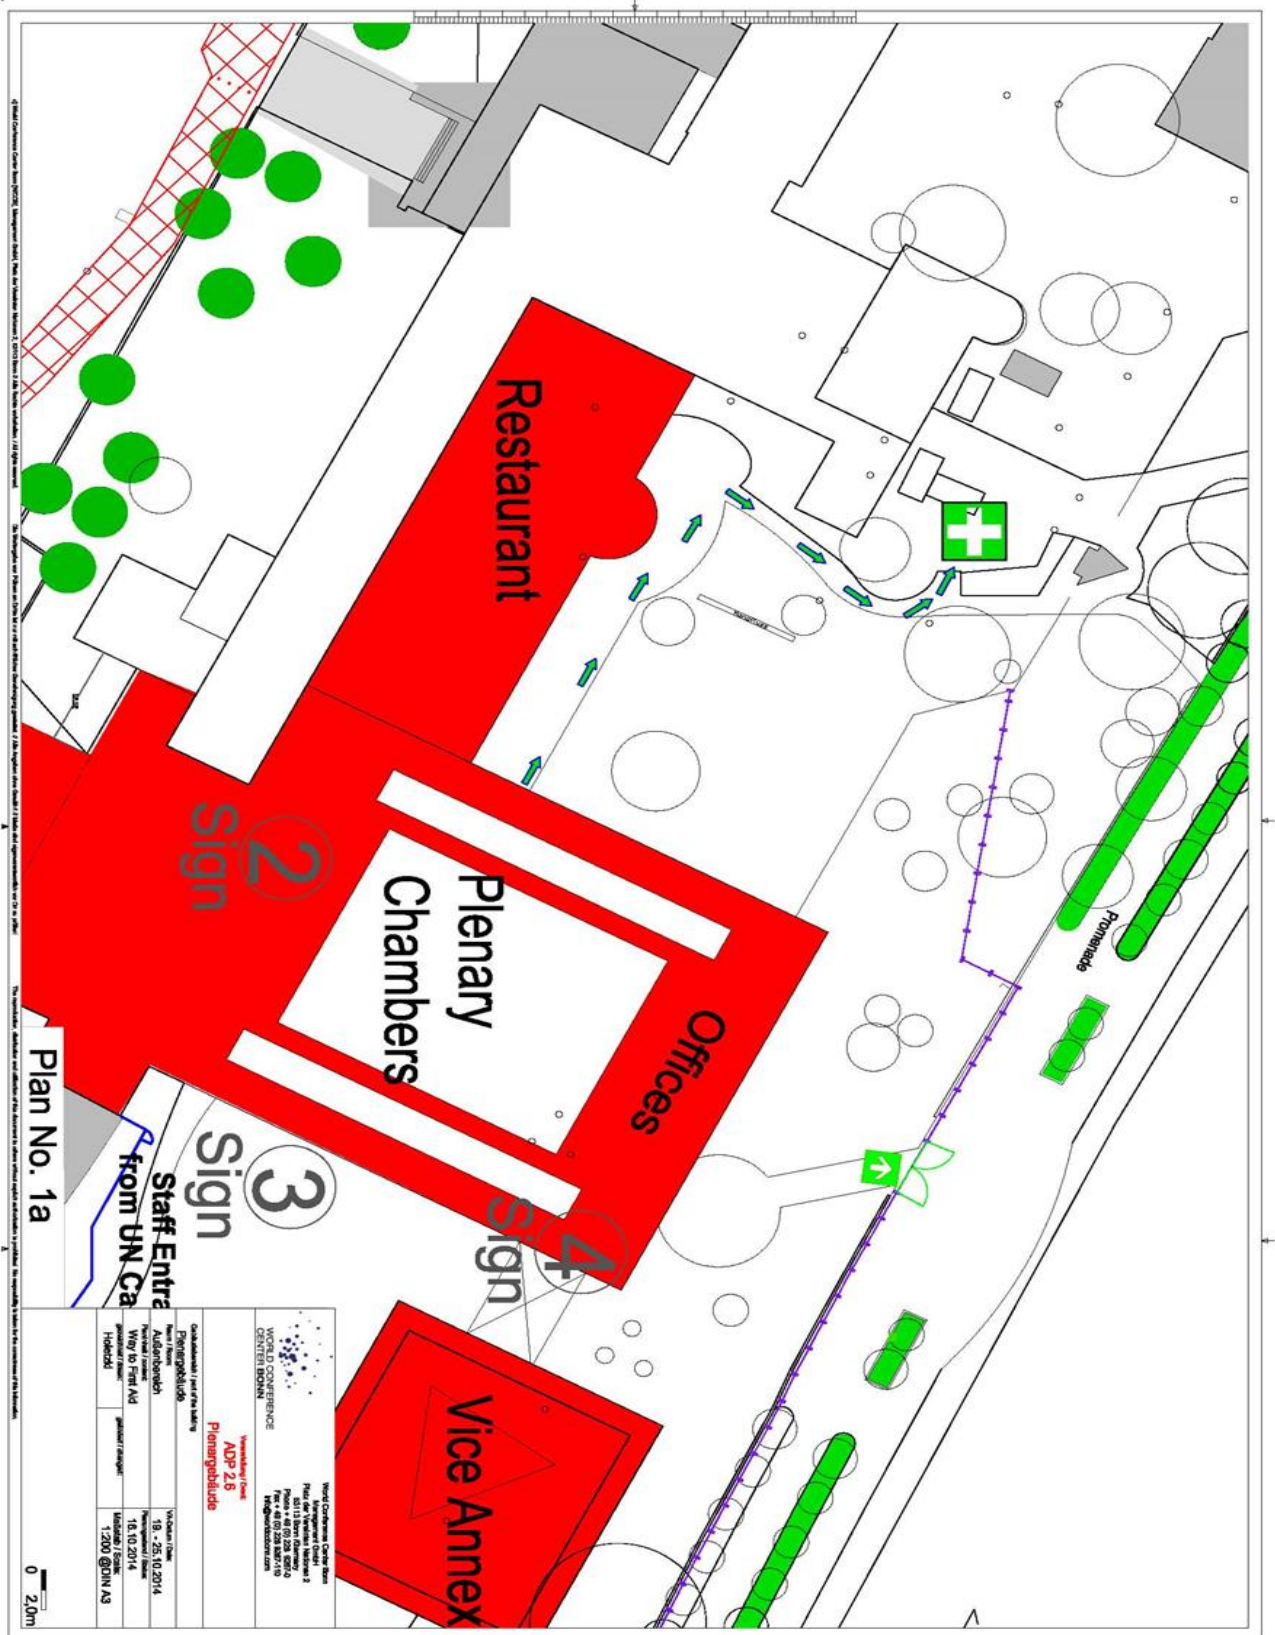

During working/meeting hours at UN premises:

- Immediately contact the First Aid staff present at the premises;
- In case your condition requires evaluation for possible EVD, an isolation room will be available and trained and equipped emergency medical staff with an ambulance will be called in to assist.

During non-working/meeting hours:

- If you are staying at a hotel, please do not approach the hotel reception or use public or private transport to get to a hospital or clinic;
- Please stay in your hotel room and call immediately the UN Bonn Security Control Center at 0228-815-0911, which will arrange for an ambulance with emergency medical staff to go to your hotel room and to provide the necessary medical care.

Bonn UN Talks on “United Nations Day”

Friday, 24 October 2014, at 6 pm,
*Forum der Kunst- und Ausstellungshalle der Bundesrepublik
Deutschland, Friedrich-Ebert-Allee 4, 53113 Bonn*

“Bridges to the future – on the completion of the UN Decade of Education for Sustainable Development”

The United Nations have declared the years from 2005 to 2014 to mark the world Decade of Education for Sustainable Development. Over the past ten years, a great number of different actors worldwide have sought to firmly establish the general principle of sustainable development in all areas of education.

Five years after the UNESCO world conference on sustainable development in Bonn and a few weeks after the national closing conference, this year’s Bonn UN Talks will take stock of the results achieved under the UN Decade and take a closer look at the future: How do we intend to shape the coming years and decades? What is the contribution that education may render towards the solution of global future challenges? Which “bridges” must we build to maintain a livable planet for future generations?

You are cordially invited to attend the UN Talks in Bonn, which will be followed by a reception. Simultaneous translation into German and English respectively will be provided for. Please indicate via E-Mail to event-office-international@bonn.de whether you are planning to attend.

Our annual United Nations Day will be celebrated on Bonn’s Market Square in front of the Old Town Hall on Saturday, 25 October, from 11:30 am to 6 pm. Under the motto: „8-0 for Development – Education Scores“, there will be information stands, fun activities as well as a stage program for the entire family. You are kindly invited to join us for this celebration as well.
