

Group 77 and China Presentation on the Economic and Social Consequences of Response Measures
[1(b)vi]

AWG-LCA Workshop
Bonn, March 31, 2009

Economic and Social Consequences of Response Measures

- All developing countries face economic and social consequences of response measures
- Mitigation actions have different economic and social consequences on different developing countries
- Promoting understanding is required about the nature and magnitude of economic and social consequences of different policies and measures

Economic and Social Consequences of Response Measures

- There are ways and means to minimize economic and social consequences of response measures
- There needs to be an evaluation of the effectiveness of existing tools, and consideration of new ones as appropriate, to assist developing country parties in addressing the economic and social consequences of response measures